Snow Falling Over Many Parts of U. S.

By United Press

The first full day of winter brought a severe cold wave and snow storm whistling across the Northern Plains into the Great Lakes area today and forecasters said wide sections of the country were assured of a white Christmas.

Driving was hazardous in the storm area. Snow hid a thin layer of ice from preceding rain.

Winds of 40 miles an hour accompanied the cold wave. Temperatures fell to six below zero at Sioux City, Ia. Chicago expected a low of zero or below.

Glacier, Mont. has 12 below today.

Snow reached depths of 10 inches at Kicksville, Mo., and eight inches at Kansas City. Most sections had three to five inches and high winds piled it into road-blocking drifts.

A snow storm snarled traffic and closed schools in parts of the Midwest on the first full day of winter today.

"Cold wave warnings" were issued early today for Nebraska, Illinois, Indiana and Southeastern Wisconsin. The weathermen predicted temperatures would fall to 15 below zero in Nebraska and from zero to five above in the other areas. Kansas and Missouri could also expect near zero readings.

Northern Indiana and Southern Michigan were warned to expect moderate to heavy snow storms.

Travel was described as extremely hazardous in Eastern Kansas and Northern Missouri as biting winds piled the new snow across some roads.

In other areas the winds swept round clear, baring a thin layer of treacherous ice.

Ahead of the storm front rain and drizzle fell on the eastern and southern states, with more forecast. However, amounts were light.

Snow fell over the Rocky Mountain region and in a broad band from the Western Great Lakes southwestward to the Texas panhandle.

The mercury fell as low as 20 degrees as far south as the Long Star state.

Fargo, N. D., reported a morning temperature of three degrees below zero and Huron, S. D., had one below.

West of the Rockies and over the Gulf States the weather was generally fair.

Winter began at 10:32 p. m. EST last night when the sun reached its southernmost point and began its slow return.

The full bite of the cold wave was not scheduled to hit the country's midsection until tomorrow night, after the snowfall stops. Nebraskans were warned to expect readings as low as 15 below zero.

The snow and drizzle made some roads hazardous. Near Victor, Ia., Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Lash of Deep River, Ia., were killed when their auto skidded out of control of a sheet-covered road.

West Europe Cautious on Kremlin Reply

LONDON (UP) — All of Western Europe cautiously hailed the Kremlin's long-awaited Christmas greeting today even though it failed to answer President Eisenhower's main plea for peace on earth.

The Soviet message, an offer to negotiate an East-West atomic treaty, was made known in Moscow yesterday to newsmen and given to the Russian man-on-the-street today in his daily newspaper.

Observers gave the message a thorough reading and found it replete and hedged on Mr. Eisenhower's historic proposal for creation of an atomic reservoir, with all nations contributing in part to its maintenance.

Ex-Prisoner Who Felt the Hand of God During Korean War to Dedicate Life to Ministry

FOSTER, Mich., (UP) — Eugene I.

Inman, who felt the hand of God in the battlefields of Korea and through the cold, hungry horror of a Communist prisoner of war camp, has decided to dedicate his life to the ministry.

The 22-year-old ex-soldier returned here Sept. 21 after three years in the hands of the Reds. He is living in a trailer next to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David M. Inman, near Saginaw.

Soon after Christmas he and his bride of two weeks, Rosemary, will leave for Kankakee, Ill., where he will begin a four-year pre-seminary course at Olivet Nazarene College.

After graduation there, he will go to Kansas City for three more years at the Church of the Nazarene Seminary.

Although his decision to devote his life to religion came only recently, it was nurtured by the sight of death and the brainwashing of the Reds.

It began Nov. 30, 1950, in the grim days of the war. Inman and some of his fellow soldiers of the 38th Infantry, 2nd Division, a battalion of men were ambushed.

Of 230 men on that battleground says Inman, he was the only survivor.

Surrounded, he got down on his knees and prayed. "I was afraid," he said, "but suddenly I felt something like a hand on my shoulder and I wasn't afraid any more."

He was soon recognized as a religious "reactionary."

"They waved pistols in my face and threatened to kill me. They said, 'Show us your God—if he really exists point him out to us.'"

He had a Bible, and the Reds knew it. They tried to get it, by persuasion, by threats. Finally they made him stand in the snow for three hours, but he wouldn't give up the Bible.

He began to preach. At first the Red political officers censored his sermons. They asked him for outlines of his prayers.

Then they told him they wouldn't review his sermons if he promised not to preach against them.

For Inman that idea was absurd. "The minute you open the Bible, you are preaching against them," he says. "Communism is a religion of materialism."

How could some resist the brain washing, and others fail how could some live through the mental and physical privation?

"Well," answers Inman, "if you were in a room with a dead friend next to you, and another who was

More Charges Against State Dept. Workers

NEW YORK (UP) — Former Assistant Secretary of State Spruille

Braden indicated today that Communists in the State Department intercepted warnings of Communist infiltration in Latin American countries which he addressed to the secretary of state and the President from 1942 to 1945.

In testimony prepared for delivery before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee this morning, Braden specifically charged that two important cables he addressed to former Secretary of State James B. Byrnes and former President Truman in July 1945 failed to reach each Byrnes and presumably to President.

Braden described the fate of the cables as a "mystery which might be portentous." He said they contained a recommendation to Mr. Truman and British Premier Winston Churchill to demand that Stalin and the Communist infiltration of Latin America when they met with the Russian premier at the Potsdam Conference.

Braden testified that from 1942, when he became ambassador to Cuba, until 1945 when he left his post as ambassador to Argentina to become assistant secretary of state, he "continually reported to the department my growing anxiety about the spread of communism in this hemisphere."

Shreveport Writer Feels Hope Slighted

Editor's Note: The following is the December 17 column of Pericles Alexander of the Shreveport Times. His ON WITH THE SHOW is widely read and is especially interesting to folks in Hope.

Shreveport, Louisiana
December 17, 1953

Mr. Bob Hope
Paramount Studios,
Hollywood, California
Dear Bob:

Next to you, Bob, the No. 1 Hope in these United States is located in Arkansas, an integral part of the region known as the Ark-La-Tex, and much easier to find on a Rand-McNally map than your namesake in Michigan, Kansas, Rhode Island, Maine, and Indiana.

Setting out to garner publicity for your forthcoming film, "Here Comes the Girls," you all have not done right by the watermelon capital of Arkansas and the Ark-La-Tex, which invited you to one of its festivals a few years back. Remember?

Anyway we were startled to read that you were coming out on a tour to bring back young ladies from various towns called Hope, most of which do not show up on any maps we got our hands on and whose population figures are infinitesimal.

Why, Bob, the combined population of the flag stops named after you scarcely is one-third that of the Arkansas city, which thrives with a citizenship of 8,605, the United States Census Bureau tells us.

Quite a respectable size, begittin' the name of Hope, eh, Bob? That flag stop in Michigan called Hope has only 48 inhabitants and it took a Grade A microscope to locate it on the map. And to show you that we did research on the other Hopes you propose to honor, we discovered the one in Maine has a population of 504; Kansas, 40; Rhode Island 500, and Indiana, 1,215, all mere whistle stops.

This here Hope in Arkansas is more your style, Bob, and you wouldn't have a bit of trouble finding a beautiful chick there. Every once in a while one of the damsels comes to Shreveport as an entry in the "Miss Holiday in Dixie" contest and would do you proud, old skinnose.

Besides girls, they also grow beautiful watermelons of Gargantuan size and shape in Hope. They don't brag like Texans — just like Ark-La-Texans — but it has been noted that their melons are as big as hogheads and one whopper weighed in at 195 pounds.

Interest in producing the super-melons began some years ago when a new variety grew to a previously unheard-of size in Hempstead County.

A seed salesman stimulated informal competition among farmers by offering prizes. When specimens of 100 pounds and over began to appear, the city's businessmen realized the publicity value of the huge fruit.

Now, Bob, they grow melons of the more convention 25-to-40-pound size.

The Ark-La-Tex can't understand how come you missed the most important Hope of all in your latest publicity exploit and would hate, for old namesake, for the campaign to fizzle out because the one city which can swing the deal for you has been overlooked.

By the way, your "Here Comes the Girls" picture will open here at the Strand Theatre Dec. 27 and we're hopeful by then you will have righted a great wrong to our area and one of the communities which makes it so wonderful.

Hopefully yours,
ON WITH THE SHOW.

Value of Farm Crops Declines $4 Million

LITTLE ROCK (UP) — The value of Arkansas 1953 commercial vegetable crops declined more than four million dollars from the 1952 total.

The Crop Reporting Service said today the value of the production of strawberries this crop, which showed a 44 per cent decrease in value.

Agricultural Statistician Mil-Mempeck said the value of this year's crop was $6,614,000, compared with $10,804,000 in 1952.

Mempeck said the fresh market production of strawberries this year totaled 277,000 crates valued at $2,133,000, compared with 390,000 crates worth $2,308,000 last year.

However, the big decline came in the processing strawberry crop. The state produced 63,000 crates valued at $340,000 in 1953. Last year, 167,000 crates valued at $2,202,000 were processed.

Mempeck said that the 39 per cent reduction in the value of all vegetable crops was caused by lower prices and lower production in some crops, such as strawberries and tomatoes.

Arkansas fresh market tomatoes crop brought in more money the 1953 than it did last year, but the value of the processing crop dropped 16 per cent.

The value of the 1953 fresh market tomato crop was $1,316,000 compared to $1,767,000 in 1952. The processing crop was worth $114,000, compared to the 1952 total of $734,000.

Mempeck said a large watermelon crop was produced this year, but an estimated 500,000 melons were not marketed because of the demand at the peak of the harvest season. He also said the average price was substantially lower than last year.

Arkansas produced 3,500,000 melons worth $224,000 in 1953, compared to a production of 2,800,000 melons worth $1,413,000 in 1952.

Other vegetable crops: Snap beans: The fresh market spring crop was up nine per cent and the fall crop was up 260 per cent from 1952. The processing crop was about one third as large as last year.

Cantaloupes: The 1953 production was 28 per cent greater than last year, but value was down 13 per cent.

Cucumbers: The crop declined 26 per cent in volume and 29 per cent in value.

Spinach: The fresh market crop was somewhat smaller, but the processing crop was larger than in 1952.

Potatoes: Low prices brought less than one-third as much to growers this year than last. Production was down because of drought and heat.

Prisoners Refuse to Read Appeal

PANMUNJOM, Korea, (UP) — The 22 unrepatriated American war prisoners refused today to read a written "come home" letter and said they would refuse to hear a special broadcast appeal planned for them tomorrow.

The Americans told their Indian custodian they will not leave either barbed wire compound to hear the appeal, which will be broadcast on the last day they can be persuaded to return home.

"The prisoners were not very happy about the broadcast," said Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya.

The reply to Thimayya's invitation to listen to the broadcast just about killed any lingering hope that the GI's would give up their anti-communism before midnight tomorrow, when the 90-day explanation period ends.

Earlier today, the Americans declined to accept a 12-page appeal addressed to each of them.

The U.N. disclosed that one American officer will talk to the prisoners over a loudspeaker system for about five minutes tomorrow morning.

School Editor Shot in Burglary
TAMPA, Fla. (UP) — The 17-year-old sports editor of a Tampa high school newspaper was shot tonight when detectives found him in a laundry.

"I did it to get money for Christmas," Detective Inspector O. C. Beynon quoted him.

Roy Walker, shot in the arm, chest, and was in a Tampa hospital in serious condition, but expected to recover. No charge was brought immediately.

Beynon said Detective Bill Bland shot the boy inside the laundry when he ran instead of obeying an order to surrender.

The boy's father is W. R. Walker, credit manager for a Tampa jewelry company.

Snow Is Also Falling in Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK (UP) — Snow began falling in northwest Arkansas this morning, and the U. S. Weather Bureau here said most of the state would see snow sometime today.

However, there's little chance of a white Christmas in Arkansas. The bureau said only light flurries of snow are expected.

There was only one report of snow this morning. The Northwest Arkansas Times reported a heavy fall in Fayetteville.

Low temperatures ranged from 10 at Fayetteville to 24 at Little Rock.

The mercury is expected to fall again tonight. A low of 10 degrees was forecast for the northwestern area, while lows of 15 and 16 degrees are expected in other areas.

Police Seek Two Missing Escapees

DETROIT (UP) — A series of false tips in this nervous city slowed cautious police efforts today to track down the two remaining fugitives from Saturday's 13-man Southern Michigan prison break.

One of the escapees still at large was Roman Uslodek, convicted murderer and criminal psychopath, known to be dangerous. The other, Robert Dowling is a convicted burglar.

A phoned, anonymous tip last night that Uslodek was in a dingy southwest section hotel, sent police through a careful but fruitless search.

Still another tip last night electrified the police network in the southwest area where yesterday three of the escapees were trapped in a small frame house and captured without a fight.

But he tip, unlike the earlier one to a Detroit newspaperman that led to the capture of the trio, was evidently groundless.

Deductible Clause Is Optional

LITTLE ROCK (UP) — Arkansas insurance policy holders can get $30 deductible protection on wind and hail damage if they want it.

State Insurance Commissioner Harvey C. Combs yesterday approved an optional $50 deductible clause on such protection within fire insurance policies written in the state.

Combs had rejected earlier a request for a mandatory clause whereby the policy holder would pay the first $50 of damage through hail and wind; the insurance company paying anything over $50.

The order yesterday sent rates on hail and windstorm protection to be increased from 34 cents per $100 to 43 cents unless the property owner elects to take the deductible.

With the deductible, the rate to wind and hail protection will drop to 31 cents per $100.

10 Cities Deny Representation in Bell Hearing

LITTLE ROCK (UP) — The Public Service Commission has been informed by 10 Arkansas cities that the Little Rock city attorney has not been authorized to represent them in protesting the latest proposed rate increase by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

In letters yesterday to the PSC, the cities of Fayetteville, Benton, Crawfordville, Hughes, Joiner, Jonesboro, Loxora, Turle, West Memphis and Wilson said attorney O. D. Longstreth Jr., or anyone else—hasn't been delegated to protest for them.

Longstreth said the new protest was authorized by a steering committee which had spearheaded the fight against former Southwestern Bell increases. Longstreth added that any city which objected to this recent fight would be excluded.

Southwestern Bell has asked for authority to raise certain fixed charges, which would give the utility an additional $300,000 a year. The boost in those charges, described as fees for relocating telephones, extensions and similar work, would offset a wage increase to employees this year, the company said.

"The coming year will be a year for great decision," he said. "That the ahead European unity, a possible recession of the horror of atomic warfare and of a beginning of an ending of the unnatural division of Europe. In Korea we look forward to the first year of peace since 1949."

WASHINGTON (UP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today that peoples under Soviet domination are so discontented "it would be reckless" for the Russians "to engage in general war."

Dulles said the East German revolt last June clearly exposed "the vast underlying discontent" of workers in Soviet satellite areas. "It indicates that if there were an armed invasion of Western Europe, the Soviet lines of communications might not be altogether secure," Dulles said.

Talk Surplus Commodity of the Day

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK, (AP)—Talk is a surplus commodity at this time of year. Both sides are whopping it up today, talk of a slowdown while the economy gets its second wind; talk of good times continuing.

It could be that neither side knows for sure. Each seems to suspect the other, both aware that the psychology of the consumer may hold the real answer.

Mechanics wonder why the consumer has been slow this December in starting his Christmas shopping. Some think that "people just don't have the money to spend anymore."

Others pooh-pooh this and point out that when-aver price concessions make goods look right to customers, the items are quickly cleared from the shelves.

Washington officials are particularly free with reassuring talk just now. The Administration's economic advisers are stressing that the economy is healthy and should stay that way during 1954. But just in case, they're readying a set of plans to be used to put brakes on any slowdown if it appears.

Businessmen watching the day-by-day scene find a mixed picture today.

The television industry is enthused over the so-called signal given color T. V. Both the National Broadcasting Co. and the Columbia Broadcasting System put color television shows over the week-end.

Raytheon Manufacturing Co. began shipping color TV sets to dealers. It has been in pilot production, waiting for the go-ahead.

The story is good today for the house builders, too. The Commerce Department says new homes valued at a total of nearly 12 billion dollars were built this year, making it 600 million dollars better than 1952. Since World War II about 75 billion dollars has gone into housing.

This causes an official of the National Association of Real Estate Boards to point out that 1953 ought to be a favorable year for the house buyer.

Stock traders seem to be feeling a little better, too. Some aren't too sure how good the earnings prospects will be for business next year, but figure that the end of the excess profits tax could make the chances of maintaining a high dividend rate pretty good.

But the signs today in other industries aren't that reassuring. Steel output seems headed for a sharp drop this week.

The oil industry eyes bafled, another rise in stocks of some of to function during January 1954. Poinsettias, Santa and his reindeer and other traditional Christmas decorations were used in the entertaining rooms and under the brilliantly lighted tree were the gifts.

The hostesses served a dessert plate with coffee to seventeen members and two guests, Mrs. Pink Taylor and Miss Bess Warren.

Big-Time Gambler to Prison

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., (UP)—Big-time gambler Benny Binion, who once pleaded guilty to a murder but didn't go to prison until convicted of income tax evasion, settled down in Leavenworth Prison today for a long stay.

The judge, Binion, former Dallas, Tex., and Las Vegas, Nev., gambling operator, was being processed and indoctrinated for five years of prison life. Warden C. H. Loomy said Binion would be treated just like any other prisoner.

Binion turned to gambling from bootlegging in Dallas in 1932 when repeal made his former occupation impossible. He operated a million-dollar-a-year policy racket in Dallas and Fort Worth, then moved on to Las Vegas to operate the fabulous Flamingo Club.

At the height of his power, he owned a 685-section ranch in Montana and several sections of oil lease land in North Dakota, in addition to his gambling empire and other property.

In 1931, he pleaded guilty to murdering a man and was given a two-year suspended sentence. In 1936, he was charged with another murder, but that charge was dismissed.

Binion once served 60 days in the county jail for carrying a concealed weapon, and at another time he paid a $10 fine for vagrancy.

But he steadily grew in power until he was indicted for income tax evasion for the years 1935 through 1949. He pleaded guilty to the charges in Texas last week and was sentenced to five years in prison, with a $20,000 fine.

After that sentence, Binion pleaded guilty to state charges of operating a policy racket. He had fought extradition to Texas from Nevada for about five years on these charges, and pleaded guilty only after the state agreed to run his four-year sentence concurrently with the federal term.

Waterfront Fight Taken to the Polls

By EUGENE LEVIN

NEW YORK (AP)—The struggle between the AFL and the Independent International Longshoremen's Association, now heated by John L. Lewis, was carried to the ballot box today in a federally supervised election.

Some 22,000 waterfront workers in Manhattan and New Jersey began voting on their choice of unions. The election, conducted by the National Labor Relations Board, will run through tomorrow. An announcement of results is expected early Thursday.

It is expected that the other 40,000 dock workers on the East Coast, all veteran ILA members, will follow the lead of the Port of New York group.

The balloting brought to a climax the rivalry between the ILA and the AFL, which set up the new ILA-AFL a few months ago in an attempt to break the ILA's hold on East Coast longshoremen. The AFL had previously ousted the ILA for failure to purge itself of racketeering elements.

ILA President William V. Bradley, who yesterday won public support from United Mine Workers President Lewis, beamed with confidence last night, predicting a 10-1 victory for his group. Bradley, a tugboat captain, has said he knows of no racketeering in the ILA.

its products. Texas, however, apparently is not worrying. After five straight months of cutting back the permitted output, Texas authorities will let more oil flow from the wells next month, to let one field expand and get in better balance with the other.

U. S. Ready to Negotiate With Russia

WASHINGTON, (UP)—The United States said today it "is prepared to negotiate" with Russia if the Soviet Union has accepted President Eisenhower's atom-for-peace proposal.

The statement was read to reporters after Moscow dispatches reported that Russia is willing to negotiate on Mr. Eisenhower's plan, but before the State Department received official word from Moscow.

After reading the statement, Snyder asked newsmen to hold it up while he conferred with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, who had just returned from the White House. While Dulles was conferring with Mr. Eisenhower a United Press Moscow dispatch was taken to the chief executive.

The White House confirmed the United Press dispatch that Russia is willing to negotiate, but declined to give additional details.

Later, the State Department released its original statement—after getting word from ambassador Charles E. Bohlen.

The department expects a statement from Dulles later in the day, after he has had time to digest the lengthy Soviet communication.

The department's original statement said:

"The department had been informed that Ambassador Bohlen was going to see Mr. Molotov. The department will naturally be very pleased if the Soviet Union has accepted the President's historical proposal for the creation of an atomic energy pool and is prepared to negotiate to that end.

"The department hopes that the Soviet Union will be no less prompt in accepting the proposal of the western powers for a four power meeting in Berlin Jan. 4.

"It might further be observed, while we are discussing what seems to be affirmative developments in international affairs, that the importance of the ratification of EDC (European defense community) becomes more and more apparent."

Initial congressional reaction to Russia's communication was sparse—and guarded.

Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.) chairman of the senate Republican policy committee, said the Soviet seems to have opened an avenue that is "worth exploring." But he cautioned that the Soviet announcement should not be cause for talk of relaxing the defense build-up in the United States.

Rhode Island Joins Fight on Tidelands

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rhode Island has asked the Supreme Court to declare unconstitutional the 1953 Submerged Lands Act, which gave coastal states the right to develop oil and other resources in submerged lands along their borders.

Alabama previously made a similar move. Rhode Island asked permission to file suits against Texas, Louisiana, California and Florida, the states it described as the principal beneficiaries of the law, and also against federal officials administering 63 million dollars in impounded funds which will go to Texas, Louisiana and California if the new law is not declared invalid.

The Rhode Island motion said that "although the law declared it applies equally to all coastal states the fact is that its purpose and effect is limited to the only valuable natural resources at present known off the coasts of the United States, which are located solely off the coasts of Louisiana, Florida, Texas and California.

French Delay Another Vote on President

PARIS (AP)—Two tired old men who insist they don't want the job led the field of possible compromise candidates for the French presidency today. Veterans Edouard Herriot and Vincent Auriol came to the fore as Parliament leaders sought to break the left-right deadlock that has resulted in 10 fruitless ballots.

Herriot and Auriol appeared the only likely figures generally considered above the party squabbles. Auriol, 69, winds up a seven-year term in the job Jan. 17.

Speculation that one or the other might be drafted mounted after Andre Le Troquer, presiding officer of the electoral college, called a meeting of leading politicians before members of Parliament met today to cast their 11th ballot.

Intervening last night when on the 10th ballot no candidate still could poll a majority, Le Troquer declared, "Prolongation of the present situation would endanger the functioning of democratic institutions."

In all previous presidential elections, no more than two ballots have been required. Premier Joseph Laniel, who has led the poll throughout most of the five days of inconclusive voting, lost ground last night when the small Social and Democratic Resistance party abstained on the 10th ballot to protest continuation of the stalemate.

The wealthy Premier, backed by Parliament's conservatives, received 392 votes. He had 413 on the ninth ballot earlier in the day. Because of absentions, he was 42 votes short of a majority on each round.

Socialist Marcel Naegelen, the other avowed candidate, got 378 on the 10th ballot and 385 on the ninth. Naegelen, former governor general of Algeria, was supported by the leftists, including the large Communist bloc.

Although both candidates remained in the race, Laniel hinted in a statement he would withdraw if a middle-of-the-road leader capable of rallying a strong majority was selected as a compromise on try.

Mississippians Study School Plan

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—The Mississippi Legislature today faces the last of the state's 46-million-dollar school equalization program bill before writing the controversial plan into law and adjourning the lengthy special session.

The bill, creating a minimum education program uniform and mandatory for every school in the state, has met with stiff resistance and may delay final adjournment of the seven-week session, devoted primarily to the program which will equalize facilities in both white and Negro schools.

Joe Friday's Sidekick Once Played Cupid

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — This may come as a surprise to Dragnet fans, but Joe Friday's sidekick made his movie debut as Cupid in 1910.
This is one of the facts, m'am, I uncovered in an hour's grilling of Sgt. Frank Smith, known to his friends and movie fans with memories as Ben Alexander. Ben, the round, easy-going partner in crime detecting with Jack Webb, is a reluctant actor at this point in his career. After all, look how long ago he started.
"I was born in Goldfield, Nev., where my father had gone on a mining venture," Ben recounted.
"From there we went to Hanford, Calif., where we lived in a hotel. My mother heard they were making movies in Hollywood, so she wrote some studios about job possibilities. They said there was plenty of work, so she and I packed up and came down here, she lived on the corner of Hollywood and Vine and the studio was just a block away. I had my first business venture there, selling lemonade in front of an orange grove across the street.
"My first picture was a dilly called 'Each Pearl a Tear.' It starred Fanny Ward and Lou Tellegen and I played Cupid. They gave me a ribbon for a costume, and strung me on a wire. Every time the stars looked at each other, they flew in and shot them with an arrow."
Budding Ben's career boomed after that. His hair was kept long so he could play boy or girl roles. During the '20s, he starred in the "Penrod" series. His last-remembered role was in "All Quiet on the Western Front" in 1930. Universal wanted to sign him up, but the director advised him to hold out until the picture was released.
"When the picture came out, we all looked the same in the German helmets," he sighed. "Not only didn't Universal sign me, I didn't work for a year."
Ben quit films in 1938. Here's his story on how it happened:
"After being a wholesome boy on the screen for years, I suddenly got cast as a heavy. The last one I did was a lulu called 'Stag Mother.' In that one, Alex Brady beat me to death with a curling iron for attacking Maureen O'Sullivan.
"I've always been friends with Lew Ayres. Once his kid sister was visiting him from San Diego. When I walked into the room, she took one look and started screaming. I decided that was the end of my movie career. I didn't step inside a studio for 17 years."
Ben hooked up with radio as an announcer and got a degree in business at Stanford. With time out for aircraft carrier duty in the Pacific, he rose to become one of the West's best emcees of audience participation shows. He became the pet of the housewives.
A couple of years ago, he remarked to a radio friend, "I'm marked to do a role in the Dragnet TV series. He can't remember now what the other one was."
Arquette relayed the remark to Jack Webb, who sent for Alexander. Ben expected to play a heavy, but it turned out Webb was seeking a new partner. All the others he had tested had been ever since.

Minneapolis Hungry for Newspaper

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — News-hungry residents of this city of more than half a million population lined up again last night to purchase copies of the Minneapolis Tribune, sold only in the newspaper's main lobby since an AFL teamsters' strike knocked out all truck deliveries.
The morning paper continued to publish but made no effort to deliver papers to homes or newsstands. Sales, made only in the lobby were limited to five copies per buyer.
Cut from the usual 620,000-run, only 75,000 copies of the Sunday edition were printed. All were sold by mid-afternoon. Last night sale of the Monday edition was brisk. Newsstands sold out all out-of-town papers they had.
The Evening Star also will be affected by the walkout. The two papers are owned by the same company and printed in the same plant.
Company officers said they would continue publishing both newspapers as long as limited newspaper supplies last. The drivers now on strike ordinarily haul the newsprint rolls to the plant.
George Wilson, federal labor conciliator, planned to contact both sides today to attempt to reopen negotiations, halted since Friday.
The union seeks a weekly pay increase of $4.50 for day work and $6.46 for night work, plus fringe benefits. Last Wednesday it rejected a company offer of $3.04 and $4.13, respectively. The drivers had been paid 2.14 an hour ($80.94 a week) for a five-day, 33-hour week for day work and 2.18 ($82.84 a week) for night work.
cager young actors who expected to use Dragnet as a steppingstone to their own shows.
Ben wasn't eager. He had had his fill of the movie business. Besides, he had some gas stations and a motel here and a boat in San Francisco Bay. He was intrigued with the hotel business and was negotiating for a hotel in Sausalito, across the bay from San Francisco. But he signed up with Dragnet and has been solving crimes in the quiet Webb manner ever since.

Henry Looks Like New Heavy Hopeful

BY JACK HAND
NEW YORK, N. Y. — Clarence Henry, back in action after a long layoff looks like an important new factor in the heavyweight picture.
Henry gave Bob Baker a sound thumping last night at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway to win a unanimous decision in a 10-round march. It was his second bout in 18 months because he was shelved for over a year due to a damaged optic nerve. The fighter insists it was a shoulder injury but his manager and trainer admit it was the eye nerve, now completely healed.
"We'd like Earl Walls, Nino Valdes, Ezzard Charles or anybody," said manager Jimmy Wilson. "Of course we'd like the champion too but we know we'll need a few more wins before we can start talking about that."

Cut from the usual 620,000-run, only 75,000 copies of the Sunday edition were printed. All were sold by mid-afternoon. Last night sale of the Monday edition was brisk. Newsstands sold out all out-of-town papers they had.
The Evening Star also will be affected by the walkout. The two papers are owned by the same company and printed in the same plant.
Company officers said they would continue publishing both newspapers as long as limited newspaper supplies last. The drivers now on strike ordinarily haul the newsprint rolls to the plant.
George Wilson, federal labor conciliator, planned to contact both sides today to attempt to reopen negotiations, halted since Friday.
The union seeks a weekly pay increase of $4.50 for day work and $6.46 for night work, plus fringe benefits. Last Wednesday it rejected a company offer of $3.04 and $4.13, respectively. The drivers had been paid 2.14 an hour ($80.94 a week) for a five-day, 33-hour week for day work and 2.18 ($82.84 a week) for night work.

Henry Looks Like New Heavy Hopeful

BY JACK HAND
NEW YORK, N. Y. — Clarence Henry, back in action after a long layoff looks like an important new factor in the heavyweight picture.
Henry gave Bob Baker a sound thumping last night at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway to win a unanimous decision in a 10-round march. It was his second bout in 18 months because he was shelved for over a year due to a damaged optic nerve. The fighter insists it was a shoulder injury but his manager and trainer admit it was the eye nerve, now completely healed.
"We'd like Earl Walls, Nino Valdes, Ezzard Charles or anybody," said manager Jimmy Wilson. "Of course we'd like the champion too but we know we'll need a few more wins before we can start talking about that."

Minneapolis Hungry for Newspaper

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — News-hungry residents of this city of more than half a million population lined up again last night to purchase copies of the Minneapolis Tribune, sold only in the newspaper's main lobby since an AFL teamsters' strike knocked out all truck deliveries.
The morning paper continued to publish but made no effort to deliver papers to homes or newsstands. Sales, made only in the lobby were limited to five copies per buyer.
